

Ship the Chip

The mail lady seems to have it in for us ever since we put bricks in a box and mailed them to another school. Now, our mail gets destroyed before it arrives at its final destination. We need to devise a way to get our packages through in one piece. Our mission today is to design a foolproof package in order for our chips to reach their final destination in one piece.

